WIENER LIBRARY

“LONDON 1938 - DEFENDING ‘DEGENERATE’ GERMAN ART”

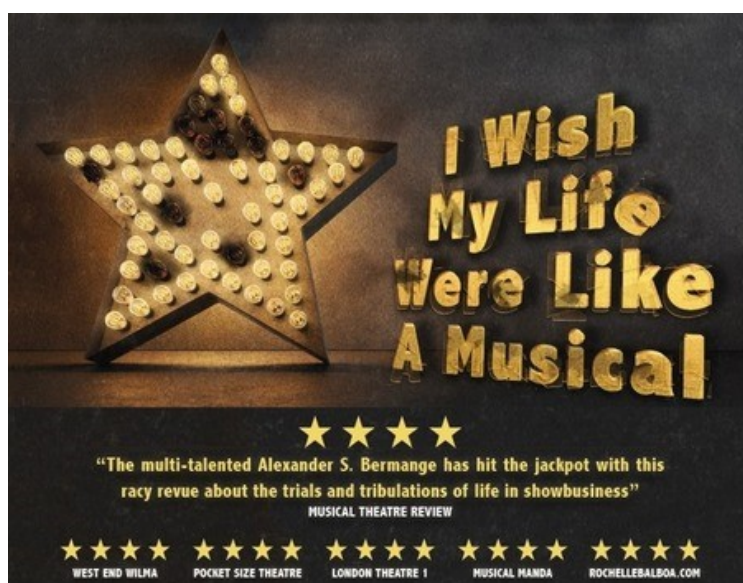

The history and context of an exhibition held in 1938 at the New Burlington Galleries in London, this was the largest display of twentieth-century German art ever staged in Britain. The show featured over three hundred examples of modern German art, by exactly those artists who had faced persecution in Germany: the exhibition in London in 1938 was an attempt to defend them and their work on a world stage. The Wiener Library's exhibition tells the story of the Third Reich's campaign against 'degenerate' art and this response in London in 1938. It features a small number of the original artworks from the New Burlington Galleries' exhibition, including works by Emil Nolde and Max Slevogt, presented with the stories of their lenders in 1938. It also includes items from The Wiener Library's unique archival collections.

Dr Barbara Warnock, the Wiener Library's Education and Outreach Manager, would be pleased to give a talk to a small group of us about the exhibition on Wednesday 12 September, the day after Rosh Hashanah. The exhibition ends on 14 September. Please contact Marianne Temple as soon as possible if you would like to come along. No charge. Travel by tube to Russell Square.

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL DAY EVENTS 2019

Following the success earlier this year of the Holocaust Memorial Day events at Ealing Synagogue, we are hoping to host more schools on more days next year during the week commencing Monday 4 February 2019. We therefore need more facilitators to help lead the workshops. Training will take place at the Northwood and Pinner Liberal Synagogue in November and December 2018, dates to be advised. In the first instance, please contact Marianne Temple if you would like to be involved. This is a very educational and inspiring challenge. No previous experience necessary!
